Section A Community Overview
A.1 Briefly describe the community and its historical development Komoro City is located in eastern Nagano prefecture and is geographically the center of Japan about 130 kilometers from Tokyo. It spreads on the southern slope of Mt. Asama, one of Japan's major active volcanoes, and the Chikuma River goes through the center of the city. In early days, Komoro developed as a castle town, where three major roads, Nakasendo, Hokkokukaido and Koshukaido, met, eventually becoming a key transportation junction for trading and then flourishing as a center of commerce. Reliable wholesalers in the area made good reputations in and out of the area and helped Komoro become a major commercial town. Komoro also has been committed to culture, attracting many cultural figures. Transforming into a modern society along with improvements of transportation system, Komoro is still a poetic castle town on a highland with unchanged landscapes and old customs and atmosphere.
